Cancellations by Individual Passengers

An individual tour participant may cancel their booking without penalty up to 45 days prior to departure. Cancellations 44 days or fewer are subject to cancellation penalties as outlined below. Online booking fees and tour elements noted on the Contract as “non-refundable” including airline deposits and final non-refundable airline tickets are not considered penalties and will not be refunded at any time. Non-refundable tour elements will be charged at group rates paid by GNT to the supplier. If, as a result of individual cancellations, the number of tour participants falls below the minimum requirement, Good News Travels reserves the right to adjust the per person tour price. Each participant must pay the per person rate associated with the type of room submitted on the required rooming list. Cancellations may require additional monies be paid by the remaining roommates; for this reason, participants are encouraged to transfer their seat to an approved replacement to avoid increased costs to others. Refunds are not given during a tour for no shows, or for attractions, meals, etc. that an individual participant does not use. Cash meal allowances will not be distributed to anyone other than the participant. Cancellation notices must be sent by the Group Leader or passenger/responsible party to reservations@goodnewstravels.com, and dates are calculated from the receipt of this email notice.

Travel Protection Plans

Travel Protection is available as an add on, and is strongly encouraged to protect against cancellation penalties and trip interruption. This product is a retail policy, rated by the participant’s age at the time of travel and cost of trip covered. Good News Travels manages insurance quotes via an online portal, and premiums are paid directly to the insurance provider who issues the policy. Travel Protection cannot be purchased or offered before making a deposit, or after a cancellation event has occurred.
